Purpose

The Strategic Priorities Faculty Initiative (SPFI) provides temporary University financial support to academic departments enabling them to hire additional full-time, tenure-track faculty or continuing-track faculty who will enhance the University of Arizona’s (UA’s) Purpose, Mission and Values. The SPFI program provides funding to hire faculty who were not recruited through a designated search with accompanying funding. Candidates will be considered whose work will address the following priorities:

1) Fostering new and creative ways of involving our diverse student body in an accessible and engaging educational experience with the goal of producing highly capable graduates who will meet our state’s critical workforce needs;
2) Developing new approaches to discoveries and cutting-edge interdisciplinary research, scholarship, or creative work that benefits our diverse communities and addresses complex global problems; and
3) Expanding collaborations with community and business partnerships, including those involving traditionally underserved groups.

Criteria

Departments seeking financial support to recruit faculty must establish that those individuals demonstrate competency in one or more of the provided priority areas identified above. Interdisciplinary hires are strongly preferred. Priorities include those candidates who will help advance UA’s distinctiveness and values. There is particular interest in hires that advance our Value of Inclusion. “At the University of Arizona, our diversity makes us stronger. Inclusion infuses our classrooms, our research labs and our outreach within the community because we believe the most significant learning takes place when we are working with others who are different from ourselves. We also prioritize culturally enriching experiences and student support through our communities and resources.”1

Given, the University of Arizona’s R1 status, land-grant status, and Hispanic-Serving Institution (HSI) designation, there is a need for faculty who advance our work in these areas. Our R1 status indicates we are at the highest levels of research activity. As such, we highly value innovation, critical thinking, and problem-solving which are greatly enhanced by a diverse and inclusive academic community. Advancing efforts to increase collaborations across traditional disciplinary and ideological divides is essential to research advancement. Our land-grant status indicates that we continue to prioritize the positive public impact of our work that encourages community-engaged research/scholarship, teaching and service that greatly contributes to the state of Arizona. Additionally, we strive to build sustainable relationships with sovereign Native Nations and Indigenous communities through education offerings, partnerships and community service. Our federally designated status as a Hispanic-Serving Institution provides opportunities to expand our capacity to serve not only Latinx students, but to prioritize serving all students.
