Subject: Welcome from the Associate Director, Faculty Affairs

THE UNIVERSITY OF ARIZONA

Dear New Faculty,

In this welcome message to all new University of Arizona faculty, Associate Director for Faculty Affairs Adrián Arroyo shares his enthusiasm for the university's committed and inclusive community. He is excited to help new faculty through the onboarding process and reiterates that the Office of Faculty Affairs is a great resource for new opportunities and professional development.

One of the newest opportunities for faculty for growth and networking is the peer mentoring program, Faculty Development Communities for Promotion (FDCP). This program aims to prioritize guiding values of excellence, honesty, trustworthiness, and compassion who can help new faculty discuss and navigate their professional development while on the pathway to promotion.

Learn more about the resources available for faculty in this website. Be pending of our next communication featuring Dr. Marla Franco, Assistant Vice Provost for Hispanic Serving Institution (HSI) Initiatives.

Stay safe and Bear Down,

Office of the Vice Provost for Faculty Affairs
