

Vice Provost for Faculty Affairs

Dear Colleagues:

We are looking forward to welcoming you to the UA New Faculty Orientation on August 15. At Orientation you will have a chance to learn about resources to support your research and teaching and talk with your colleagues and campus leaders. The day will start with a continental breakfast at 7:45, with the program beginning at 8:15. The workshops will provide you with a chance to interact with other new faculty on research and teaching topics, and you will have lunch with your dean. The program will introduce you to research and instructional resources and programs, including those offered by the Office of Instruction and Assessment and the Office for Research, Discovery, and Innovation.

The afternoon sessions will focus on the innovations in active learning, increasing research productivity, online instruction and student engagement that you'll have a chance to get involved with at UA. You will be introduced to the rich array of services that you can use to support your teaching, and you will have a chance to talk with faculty from related fields about how you can apply those resources in your classes.

As you make the transition to Tucson, you should find the resources on our New Faculty page to be helpful: <http://facultyaffairs.arizona.edu/newfaculty>. All the details on getting started at UA are included on this New to UA page: <http://hr.arizona.edu/employees-affiliates/new-ua>

We look forward to talking with you on August 15, beginning with a Continental Breakfast at 7:45 in the Collaborative Learning Space of the Science-Engineering Library (campus map for location and parking) at 744 North Highland Avenue. You can RSVP online or contact my coworker Asya Roberts at 520-626-0202 or asya@email.arizona.edu.

I look forward to meeting you and introducing you to campus.
